First Sunday after Epiphany

الأحد الأول بعد عيد الدنج

G: John 1:29-34 R: 2-Cor. 10:1-11 - Isaiah 40:6-11

It is therefore in order to give us an example of humility, and to commit ourselves to receiving baptism which blots out sins and gives us salvation, that the Lord deigned to be baptized from the hands of his servant. This passage from the Scriptures reveals the Holy Trinity, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit manifested himself in the visible form of a dove when he descended on Our Lord after his baptism. It's a symbol of simplicity. The form of the dove teaches those who have been sanctified by the Holy Spirit to flee all duplicity, not to do his deeds with coldness. The dove knows not to tear, while the ravens give kisses, but at the same time they tear. The ravens feed on bodies that have been put to death, which the dove does not do, which feeds only on the fruits of the earth. Do not be afraid of division, recognize in the dove the symbol of the unity of Christian brothers and sisters in order to live a true peace.
